This sounds like fun!

Stitch N' Pitch brings together two American traditions – Baseball and the NeedleArts. According to the National NeedleArts Association who sponsors Stitch N' Pitch, you just "go to a game and knit, crochet, embroider, cross-stitch and needlepoint. Sit among friends, family and colleagues and cheer on your favorite Baseball Team."

Fans can receive discount tickets in a special seating section along with tote bags and prizes. Yarn and craft shops and fiber-arts groups provide samples, coupons and other goodies.

Atlanta's Stitch N' Pitch Day is scheduled for Sept. 17.

We have only one lone home game left here with the Braves...and not sure we'll get to go even though I have free tickets. But...maybe I should think about stichin' if we do make the game. Sounds like two fun activities at the same time.

That sounds like a great idea. Baseball is probably the one game you can watch and do something else at the same time.

Are the Braves making a comeback?

They're doing better than they were, Beverly. This hasn't been a good year, but they were on a tear for the last few games.

If the game was too exciting, I would probably end up dropping a few stitches. But it would still be fun to try it.
